CLEAN SWEEP

One Call Does it All

Founded in 1996, Clean Sweep Restoration Services has evolved into a full service emergency and repair restoration company for both commercial and residential properties. They quickly respond to and address homes and buildings damaged by water, fire, smoke, wind, and mold. As a member of Disaster Kleenup International (DKI), they have adopted a mission statement that includes 24 hour a day service, 7 days a week. Membership in this esteemed organization (DKI) includes responding to national emergencies if called upon such as the recent floods across the Midwest.

In addition to the emergency response portion of their business, they have just finished a new showroom located in Wallingford that offers everything from carpet, hardwood flooring, vinyl siding, and a full array of quality kitchen cabinetry. "Our showroom is perfect for the busy professional who simply doesn't have time to shop at Home Depot or get quotes from five or six independent contractors and deal with the aggravation that comes along with that," states Mike Cody, president of Clean Sweep. If a visit to their showroom isn't convenient for their client, Clean Sweep offers personal service including bringing samples directly to the client to personally assist with the project. It is this type of one-on-one service and attention that sets them apart from their competition. In addition to their Wallingford location, they also have a satellite location in Westport.

In January of this year they were called upon by Foxwoods Casino and Hotel when an external fire caused the water damage of some of the finest suites available. "It was a unique project because we had to restore the rooms without being noticed by the current guests staying in the hotel. We worked around the clock for seven days straight cleaning and drying out the areas affected. The management chose us because of our excellent reputation in the business and because they knew we would get them back up and running as fast as possible."

So whether it's a homeowner emotionally overwhelmed by a tree falling on their home or a major commercial building mishap, Clean Sweep is known for its quick, efficient service and stellar industry standards in clean up and restoration. "When you're affected by an emergency, the last thing you want to do is have to deal with four or five different companies for the various areas of damage you're dealing with," states Mike, "One call to us and we take care of everything from start to finish. We also have the latest software estimating system preferred by insurance companies which also streamlines the process and moves things along in a timely manner."

Their goal is to maintain the reputation of performing quality work and delivering outstanding service while maintaining the highest standards and the pursuit of excellence in the field. With added resources of over 200 affiliate companies, Clean Sweep is able to return any size damaged property to pre-loss condition fast and efficiently, delivering complete satisfaction to their consumer, insurance, and corporate customers. Barbara Arnold of Windsor, whose 255 year old home was severely damaged when a roofing contractor failed to cover the house when it rained, said, "They know what they're doing and they take you through the whole process, such as the back and forth with the insurance company and the general contractor. That was a real relief for us."

Due to recent flood issues in the past several years and the mad rush of calls that come in all at once, Clean Sweep has recently introduced a disaster recovery program that makes a commercial business a "Priority Customer." This program is free to sign up and takes only a few minutes to fill out the form. If "extreme weather" hits the area, the Priority Customers get serviced first – which is key when everyone in the area is affected, creating lengthy lists to service those not on the priority list.
